

Last Date: 19 – 08 – 2026

1. What is emotional validation?

- Correct Answer: (b) Accepting and acknowledging one's own or others' emotions
- Page/Slide Number: Page 2 (Lecture 1, Slide 2)
- Slide Heading: Understanding Emotional Validation
- Grounding: The text explicitly defines emotional validation as a practice that "involves acknowledging and accepting another person's emotions as real and legitimate."

2. What is the main purpose of emotional ventilation?

- Correct Answer: (b) Expressing emotions in a healthy way
- Page/Slide Number: Page 3 (Lecture 1, Slide 3)
- Slide Heading: Emotional Expression and Ventilation
- Grounding: The text states that expressing feelings in healthy ways contributes to overall psychological health and resilience, and prevents emotional buildup that can lead to stress and anxiety.

3. Which skill is essential for emotional validation?

- Correct Answer: (b) Active listening
- Page/Slide Number: Page 10 (Lecture 1, Slide 10)
- Slide Heading: Active Listening: The Foundation of Validation
- Grounding: The text explicitly titles active listening as the "Foundation of Validation," noting that giving your full attention and using reflective responses are the key tools to validating someone's feelings.

4. Emotional suppression can lead to:

- Correct Answer: (c) Mental health issues
- Page/Slide Number: Page 17 (Lecture 1, Slide 17)
- Slide Heading: The Hidden Costs of Emotional Suppression
- Grounding: The text warns that suppressing emotions requires significant mental effort and is closely linked to higher rates of anxiety, depression, and increased chronic stress.

By
Vigneshwaran T [23MIS0587]

5. Which of the following is a type of boundary?

- Correct Answer: (b) Emotional boundary
- Page/Slide Number: Page 26 (Lecture 2, Slide 2)
- Slide Heading: Understanding Boundaries in Relationships
- Grounding: The text categorizes boundaries into several types, explicitly listing "Emotional Boundaries," which are used to protect your feelings and emotional well-being.

6. What is assertiveness in boundary setting?

- Correct Answer: (c) Expressing needs clearly and respectfully
- Page/Slide Number: Page 37 (Lecture 2, Slide 13)
- Slide Heading: Understanding Assertiveness
- Grounding: Assertiveness is defined in the text as "expressing your needs, opinions, and feelings confidently while respecting the rights and perspectives of others," striking a balance between passivity and aggression.

7. What helps in managing emotional overwhelm?

- Correct Answer: (b) Mindfulness and grounding
- Page/Slide Number: Page 54 (Lecture 3, Slide 9)
- Slide Heading: Mastering Emotions?
- Grounding: To master emotions and prevent overwhelm, the text specifically instructs students to "practice mindfulness and grounding techniques" alongside recognizing emotional triggers.

8. Emotional triggers are:

- Correct Answer: (b) Situations that provoke emotional reactions
- Page/Slide Number: Page 55 (Lecture 3, Slide 10)
- Slide Heading: Identifying Emotional Triggers
- Grounding: The slide directly defines emotional triggers as "situations, words, or people that provoke strong emotional responses."

9. Emotional resilience refers to:

- Correct Answer: (c) Ability to adapt and recover from stress
- Page/Slide Number: Page 62 (Lecture 3, Slide 17)
- Slide Heading: Understanding Emotional Resilience
- Grounding: The text defines emotional resilience as "the ability to recover quickly from difficulties. It's about bouncing back from setbacks, stress, and emotional distress, emerging stronger than before."

10. Social support contributes to:

- Correct Answer: (b) Emotional resilience
- Page/Slide Number: Page 63 (Lecture 3, Slide 18)
- Slide Heading: Strategies to Strengthen Resilience
- Grounding: Under the core strategies to strengthen resilience, the text explicitly emphasizes "Strengthen Support Systems," noting that building strong social connections is crucial for emotional well-being and bouncing back from adversity.

SUMMARY:

1. b) Accepting and acknowledging one's own or others' emotions
2. b) Expressing emotions in a healthy way
3. b) Active listening
4. c) Mental health issues
5. b) Emotional boundary
6. c) Expressing needs clearly and respectfully
7. b) Mindfulness and grounding
8. b) Situations that provoke emotional reactions
9. c) Ability to adapt and recover from stress
10. b) Emotional resilience